

How We Put On A Show

Here's the 10-step process we use at SLT to select and put on our show season, with an indicative time scale.

Shows typically run for 5 nights (with additional nights or matinees for some family/Christmas shows) and have a 10-week rehearsal schedule with rehearsals 3 times a week.

| What  | When   | Notes  |   |
|---|--|--|---|
| 1. Theatre committee (TC) invites directors (not writers) to submit plays                     | At least 6 months ahead of the season commencing. Usually done twice a year. | TC is made up of a number of SLT members with a passion for theatre and experience of acting/directing .   |   |
| 2. Submissions are read by TC, who call directors for an interview if their play is selected. | Submission window closes after around a month.                               | Duration of reading process depends on the number of submissions. Directors don't have to be members to submit, but they must join if their play is scheduled.   |  |
| 3. Successful submissions scheduled and season announced, including audition dates            | Up to 2 months later.  | Performance rights are applied for, and theatre reps appointed to shows to help guide and support directors. Directors recruit key crew such as assistant director, stage manager and lighting/sound designer. |  |
| 4. Directors advertise and hold open auditions  | 13+ weeks before the show.   | Audition forms and pieces to prepare published on the SLT website at least 2 weeks in advance. Audition formats vary.  |  |

| 5. Directors cast the show and seek other crew members needed. | 10+ weeks before the show date  | All cast and crew members must be or become SLT members before first rehearsal.  |    |
| 6. Rehearsals start  | 10 weeks before show week.  | Props and costumes are sourced. Rehearsals are pre-allocated 2 nights per week + a Sunday pm. Reps will attend occasionally. |    |
| 7. Run up week   | 9 days before the show date (so Sunday get-in for Tuesday of the next week) | Get-in and several rehearsals plus at least one tech run. All cast and crew should be available every night if needed.       |   |
| 8. Dress rehearsal   | On the eve of the first show night (normally Monday)                        | Performed under show conditions – usually a Monday. Stage Manager is now in charge of the show.                              |  |
| 9. Get-out   | Morning after the last show   | All cast and crew should be available. Theatre space must be left ready for the next show to get in.                         |  |
| 10. TC seeks feedback from the cast and crew.                  | Post-show survey.   | To help directors and assess processes.  |  |
